

Witchcraft — Work

ⵓⵔⵓⵎⵓ forbid witchcraft work

All-hallows Eve

Spiritual Guidance

Mediums

Palm Reading

Psychic Reading

Horoscope

Yoga

Kundalini

Chakras

Tarot Cards

Hypnotism

Astrology

Ouija Boards

Reincarnation

Numerology

Rosary Beads

Fortune Cookes

Superstition

Dream Catchers

Feng-Shai

Seer

Sorcery

Magician

Wizard

Supernatural

Acupuncture

Alchemy

Physicians (Doctor)

What is Witchcraft ?

Modern-day witchcraft is known as a ritual and practice that incorporates a belief in magic and that is associated especially with neo-pagan traditions and religions (such as Wicca) ... use of sorcery, magic, or supernatural powers to inflict harm or misfortune on people or animals. The modern-day English word witchcraft has three principal connotations: the practice of magic or sorcery worldwide; the beliefs associated with the Western witch hunts of the 14th to the 18th century; and varieties of the modern movement called Wicca, frequently mispronounced “wikka.”

The word “witch” derives from the Old English words “wicca” and “wicce” (masculine and feminine forms, respectively). This later became “wicche”, in Middle English, which meant the same thing as “wicca” and “wicce”, but didn’t distinguish between the genders, being used to refer to both men and women. Yet, much further back in ancient time, it was never mentioned as feminine alone. However, over time, using “wicche” to refer to men became less and less common, being replaced by synonyms such as “wizard”, “warlock”, and/or “sorcerer”. By the 16th century, the spelling had changed over time from “wicche” to “witch” and, by this time, the word was almost exclusively used to refer to women, as it still is today.

However, in the Wiccan religion, it is now once again somewhat confusing and common to use “witch” to refer to both men and women. In this case, though, they use witch to simply refer to “an adherent of Wicca”. The origin of the words “wicca” and “wicce” isn’t entirely known, but it is thought the words themselves originally meant “wise one”, with the earliest references to these words in Old English always seeming to be associated with fortune-telling and “teaching”, based on that foreknowledge. So the question is, is this a good thing to have a witch among us? Because we have heard in historical stories that there are not just bad witches out there but some good witches?

Because of this Witchcraft is traditionally the exercise or invocation of alleged supernatural powers to control people or events, practices typically involving sorcery or magic. Although defined differently in disparate historical and cultural contexts, witchcraft has often been seen, especially in the West, as the work of crones who meet secretly at night, indulge in cannibalism and orgiastic rites with the Devil, or Satan, and perform black magic. This is why most people view this as bad witches.

Witchcraft thus defined exists more in the imagination of contemporaries than in any objective reality. Yet this stereotype has a long history and has constituted for many cultures a viable explanation of evil in the world. The intensity of these beliefs is best represented by the European witch hunts of the 14th to 18th century, but witchcraft and its associated ideas are never far from the surface of popular consciousness and—sustained by folk tales—find explicit focus from time to time in popular television and films and fiction. But, this whole thing about witches and their witchcraft work only gives us about 75%, while the remainder of 25% is hidden from us knowing more about it. This is why this document will reveal and explain to us what 25% is hidden from us.

If we investigate very carefully the deep historical facts about them and their work, we will be able to understand more about them. Because the modern-day witchcraft work, we were told or taught about isn't entirely enough. There is more to know and understand. And the worst part about them, is people now claiming there are good witches out there, no big deal. This kind of thought, fact, and belief isn't unacceptable. Here, we will find out why, because many people are banging to forget about what laws are against the witches and what to do about them.

Most people do not realize those who are involved in witchcraft work are mostly defined as false believers who believe in supernatural and evil work they may or may not know about. The performed work of witchcraft is often as mad scientists who play like deities. Not only to perform sorcery, magic, or use supernatural powers to inflict harm or misfortune on people or animals on earth but also how perform healing or killing. Healing is not always a natural healing way, they found another way to heal people in an act like the heavenly Creator (deity) ONE's work. Like how doctors and/or scientists found a way to clone a living organism or use biomedical engineering. The bio-engineering techniques and materials to synthesize several potent antigens to create a vaccine. Nor created a cochlear implant for the Deaf person, a small electronic device that helps people to hear. Nor, recover an injured or aging person who lost a nerve or leg or most of its body part, by adding such bio-robotic leg or body part. Run by electronic device as well. Nor created Genetically Modified Organisms (GMOs), a direct extension of chemical agriculture in plants, animals, microorganisms, or other organisms whose genetic makeup has been modified in a laboratory. Nor creating an atomic bomb to weaponize against the enemy. This is what most of their doing is actually like witchcraft performing work.

They are performing an act like a supernatural spirit-witch who uses their brain to figure out how to weaponize for the kill, fit things, or heal, whether they know it is evil or not. The Creator Father, $\Psi\Upsilon\Psi\Delta$ who made the heavens and earth does not accept these witchcraft acts, according to Deuteronomy 18:10-14 or Leviticus 20:27. According to that Scripture, we can see why the witchcraft act is against the law and is punishment by death. $\Psi\Upsilon\Psi\Delta$ does not allow anyone to practice these such exercises or involvement the invocation of alleged supernatural powers to control people. Allowing them to act like deity beings who have supernatural powers to control people. Since $\Psi\Upsilon\Psi\Delta$ is the ONLY true supreme ONE who has all the power and authority to control people. Who can heal and protect us from the enemy? That is why $\Psi\Upsilon\Psi\Delta$ does not accept such a way to perform this witchcraft work. This is the hidden 25% of what most people are doing is like doing such witchcraft works.

When it comes to physicians, doctors who consider themselves as healers, spiritual healers, or medicine keepers are doing such witchcraft work. For example, a surgeon is a type of doctor who specializes in performing surgery. Such as Colon and rectal surgeons, neurosurgeons, Critical care surgeons, Obstetricians and gynecologists, ophthalmologists, Orthopaedic surgeons, and otolaryngologists (also known as ENT). It appears that most surgeon doctors do not know they are doing witchcraft work. Cutting open the human body isn't a natural way to heal or recover a person's life. It's an act of playing like deity work. They do not know what they are doing is against $\Psi\Upsilon\Psi\Delta$. Most of all, we need to understand why nowhere in the scripture books say for mankind to do such surgeon work to recover a person's life. We are supposed to pray $\Psi\Upsilon\Psi\Delta$ for the healing of those who are sick. Praying is the best tool to have hope for a person to recover from their sickness.

Witches like to do such experiment work and this is where the name of 'scientist' partly came from. Long before the name 'DOCTOR', the title not only meant a hospitalist doctor who provides care for patients. The title name doctor is defined to mean a higher university degree, like a professor, but are more often wiser than the professor. The word "doctor" came from the Latin word for "teacher." Physicians who study before becoming one, have the same education and training as primary care doctors but do more than specialize in providing hospital care. Or other specialties such as pediatric (child-centered) medicine, internal medicine, or family medicine.

And what about “scientist”? Where did this word come from? How was the name of science introduced in English? Well, it originally came from the Latin word “scientia” which meant “knowledge”, a knowing, expertness, or experience. By the late 14th century, science meant, in English, a collective knowledge. But it has consistently carried the meaning of being a socially embedded activity: people seeking, systematizing, and sharing knowledge. So now we know where this word “science” has come from, KNOWLEDGE. Before there were doctors and/or scientists, there were people who were a philosopher, a philosopher who did a lot of observatory research. A person who offers views or theories on profound questions in ethics, metaphysics, logic, and other related fields. A person who is deeply versed in philosophy. They also perform like what scientists do. Because again, they are observant ones who research and collect knowledge.

Speaking of “OBSERVANT”, one of the most important words that most people no longer are aware of is how this word has been replaced with the understanding word of “RELIGION”. An ideal word when a person asks this kind of question: “What religion do you believe in?” against the proper way of asking people, “What observant does he or she believe in?” or “What beliefs do you observe?” People today deal with this new word “religion” ever since 1200’s CE. Because of a variety of different beliefs and practices. Instead using the general simple word observe or observant. This, we now can see why there are not just a good observant one but also a bad observant one who are against ﷻ’s knowledge of the law HE created the heavens and earth.

We may now see how badly these historical words have evolved or added over time, by changing the definition of the word against the old original word. This is one of the few reasons why we have to be very careful how we read and accept how the modern-day dictionary and/or the Bible was translated and written.

Those who are a professor or doctors have this philosophy work too, yet, they are not being called philosophers, because the title names “professor” or “doctor” are way better title names than a philosopher. Someone who has so much knowledge that people can be amazed at how smart a person is. This can also apply to a hospitalist or doctor who provides care for patients. For example, a Physician-Scientist, or doctor who has physicians (MDs or Dos) additional degrees to experiment work on medical physicians. They are trained to conduct independent scientific investigations in the laboratory, clinic, or other setting, using their in-depth clinical knowledge of human health and disease. They may also use their skills in scientific analysis and communication to lead scientific teams or organizations, guide policy decisions, or develop new therapies, treatments, or prevention strategies. They may work in various medical specialties and research areas, such as oncology, neurology, immunology, genetics, epidemiology, and more.

With all of this independent scientific investigation in the laboratory work, witches also do this scientific kind of work. They can be as mad scientists who find a new way to heal, harm, or kill people. There are historical and fictional sources that possibly identify some of their common themes and examples of the types of scientific work they may do in their laboratory work. Some of these are:

- Alchemy: Alchemy is an ancient and medieval art and science that aimed to transform base metals into gold, create the elixir of life, and discover the secrets of nature and the cosmos. Many witches were interested in alchemy, as it offered them a way to manipulate matter and energy, create potions and medicines, and achieve immortality or enlightenment. Some famous alchemical witches include Agrippa von Nettesheim, Mary the Jewess, and Nicolas Flamel.
- Herbalism: Herbalism is someone who studies and uses plants for medicinal and magical purposes. FYI, not all Herbalism is the evil witch but most witches are skilled in the herbalists' work. As they knew how to identify, collect, prepare, and apply various herbs for healing, protection, or enchantment. Some witches also grew their gardens or cultivated rare or exotic plants in their laboratories. Some famous herbalist witches include Circe, Medea, and Alice Kyteler.
- Astrology: Astrology is the study of the movements and positions of celestial bodies and their influence on human affairs and natural events. Many witches were adept astrologers, as they knew how to observe, calculate, and interpret the stars and planets for divination, prediction, or guidance. Some witches also used astrological symbols and tools, such as charts, tables, calendars, or instruments, in their laboratories. Some famous astrological witches include Nostradamus, Mother Shipton, and Catherine de Medici.
- Necromancy: Necromancy is the practice of communicating with or raising the dead for various purposes. Many witches were involved in necromancy, as it offered them a way to access hidden knowledge, summon spirits or demons, or control zombies or skeletons. Some witches also used necromantic devices and materials, such as skulls, bones, candles, or blood, in their laboratories. Some famous necromantic witches include Erichtho, John Dee, and Marie Laveau.

Little more we need to understand this word witch (or witches), witches often have a laboratory scientific work, according to history. The concept of their witchcraft work is complex and contested, as different cultures have different beliefs and attitudes towards it. Some may view it as a positive or neutral practice that involves using natural or supernatural forces for various purposes. Others may view it as a negative or evil practice that involves harming others or serving the Devil. The concept of science is also not fixed or universal, as different schools and traditions have different methods and goals of inquiry. Therefore, whether someone is a scientist or a witch depends largely on how they are defined and perceived by themselves and others.

One such example is Hypatia of Alexandria, who lived in the late fourth and early fifth centuries CE. She was a renowned pagan mathematician, scientist, teacher, and philosopher, who was admired by many for her wisdom and eloquence. She was also a leader of the Neoplatonic school of philosophy, which sought to harmonize the teachings of Plato with other traditions. However, she was also hated by some Christian fanatics, who accused her of being a witch and a heretic. In 415 CE, she was brutally murdered by a mob of Christian zealots, who stripped her naked, dragged her through the streets, and tore her flesh with sharp shells.

Another example is Agrippa von Nettesheim, who lived in the late fifteenth and early sixteenth centuries CE. He was a German scholar, physician, astrologer, and occultist, who wrote extensively on various subjects, including natural philosophy, magic, theology, and alchemy. He was influenced by the Hermetic tradition, which claimed to reveal the secrets of nature and the divine. He also experimented with different forms of magic, such as ceremonial magic, talismans, and necromancy. However, he also faced persecution and opposition from the Church and the authorities, who condemned him as a sorcerer and a blasphemer. He was repeatedly arrested, banned, and exiled for his controversial views and practices.

There are more examples of how philosophers who end up having witches perform work. Many are not well-documented or widely known. The concept of witchcraft itself is complex and contested, as different cultures have different beliefs and attitudes towards it. Some may view it as a positive or neutral practice that involves using natural or supernatural forces for various purposes. Others may view it as a negative or evil practice that involves harming others or serving the Devil. The concept of philosophy is also not fixed or universal, as different schools and traditions have different methods and goals of inquiry. Therefore, whether someone is a philosopher or a witch depends largely on how they are defined and perceived by themselves and others.

The words “science” and “doctor” come from such words "knowledge" and philosophy ever since ancient times. Turn into a professional modern-day fancy word. This is why today, we have a good observant one who is the one who observes, practices, keeps, and guards the law of $\Psi\Upsilon\Upsilon\Upsilon$. While the bad observant one breaks free from the law of $\Psi\Upsilon\Upsilon\Upsilon$. They are independent ones who do not believe in $\Psi\Upsilon\Upsilon\Upsilon$'s way. Who freely do their way observably, their nature of this world for healing, harming, or even for killing. Making their scientific law from their own research works.

So far, we can see why doctors, scientists, and witches all have this common work. To identify the kind of work they all do, not just the profile of the witches. Doctors and scientists are involved. This is why most doctors and scientists are false believers of $\Psi\Upsilon\Upsilon\Upsilon$. They don't follow, practice, and believe in what the Scripture books of $\Psi\Upsilon\Upsilon\Upsilon$ teach.

This is why in the past, in America and Europe, civilized people once killed many witches. Because they knew what the Bible says about witches and what to do about them. Below here, we can see a number of examples:

- Isaiah 41:10 - “Fear not, for I am with you; be not dismayed, for I am your God; I will strengthen you, I will help you, I will uphold you with my righteous right hand”
- Jeremiah 30:17 - “For I will restore health to you, and your wounds I will heal, declares the Lord, because they have called you an outcast: ‘It is Zion, for whom no one cares!’”
- Psalm 103:2-4 - “Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits, who forgives all your iniquity, who heals all your diseases, who redeems your life from the pit, who crowns you with steadfast love and mercy...”
- Deuteronomy 7:15 - “And the Lord will take away from you all sickness, and none of the evil diseases of Egypt, which you knew, will he inflict on you, but he will lay them on all who hate you.”

Most often, the civilized people who have killed people in the past, who claimed that they were witches, often made a bad judgment call. Some of them were not witches, often innocent. Often misunderstood what they were doing. For example, some of them were making medicine with herbs only, one of them was the Herbalist. While others who deal with other materials along with herbs are like Alchemists or Shamans, they are false believers of $\Psi\Upsilon\Upsilon\Upsilon$. Alchemists or Shamans used different kinds of hermetic traditions that are not the same as what the Herbalists one deal with only the Herbalism method. Since Alchemists and Shamans deal with a mix of different resources. Just as the witchcraft performs work that witches do also. Here are some of the fictional sources' reasons why some people would prefer to use only the herbalist method, an example of why the herbalist method over alchemy:

- Herbalism is more natural and holistic than alchemy. Herbalism uses plants and other natural substances compatible with the human body and its functions. Herbalism also considers the whole person, including their physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual aspects, when treating their illness. Alchemy, on the other hand, uses metals, minerals, and other artificial substances that may have harmful or unpredictable effects on the human body and its balance. Alchemy also focuses more on the material and mechanical aspects of nature, rather than the living and organic ones - https://www.reddit.com/r/dnd-next/comments/knfg78/herbalism_vs_alchemy/https://www.dndbeyond.com/forums/dungeons-dragons-discussion/rules-game-mechanics/14152-potion-crafting-chemists-supplies-vs-herbalism.
- Herbalism is more accessible and affordable than alchemy. Herbalism can be practiced by anyone who has access to plants and basic tools, such as a knife, a mortar and pestle, a pot, and a fire. Herbalism can also be learned from books, teachers, or experience, without requiring any special qualifications or permissions. Alchemy, on the other hand, requires expensive and rare ingredients, such as gold, mercury, sulfur, and salt. Alchemy also requires complex and sophisticated tools, such as furnaces, flasks, alembics, and retorts. Alchemy also requires secret and arcane knowledge that is often guarded by guilds, orders, or authorities - <https://steamcommunity.com/app/290080/discussions/0/152390648091382195/https://gaming.stackexchange.com/questions/5433/which-druid-profession-is-best-in-the-long-run-skinning-leatherworking-or-herba>.

- Herbalism is more ethical and moral than alchemy. Herbalism respects the natural order and harmony of nature and its creatures. Herbalism also aims to heal and help people who are suffering from diseases or injuries. Alchemy, on the other hand, violates the natural order and harmony of nature and its creatures. Against ʿĀḍī's created way of life. Alchemy also aims to manipulate and exploit nature and its forces for personal gain or power, which is why this is an evil way to do what witches would dare to do. Alchemy may also involve unethical or immoral practices, such as animal or human experimentation, necromancy, or demonology.

These are just enough reasons to argue in favor of the herbalism method over alchemy. This is why the Herbalists are the ones who know how to make medicine from different sources of plants. Specific plants that are healthy food for our body. Because it has all the protein, vitamins, and minerals, the best nutrient food on earth for our body needs. This is why herbs are the best way to help us with healing needs. Against using the other so-called healing method with living creatures' blood, metals, strange chemical ingredients, and other rituals.

Also, people often are not eating enough nutrients from fruits or vegetables alone. Instead of eating a lot of junk food or only eating meat so often. Food from plants is the richest diet kind of food that can lower your blood pressure, reduce the risk of heart disease and stroke, prevent some types of cancer, lower the risk of eye and digestive problems, and have a positive effect on blood sugar, which can help keep appetite in check as well.

So, oftentimes those herbalist people were not performing an altered kind of medicine which can harm or kill people. Oftentimes people who misunderstand judge them for the punishment of death, because they did not take enough time to analyze and understand their actions. Or find someone who fully understands their performing work, and will be able to recognize that they are not witches who often call themselves spiritual healers or medicine keepers.

Once again, witches who use herbs also deal with different materials to mix with. Perform also sorcery, and magic and use their odd act of supernatural powers to inflict, fool, trick, harm, or misfortune on people or animals. They don't follow the simple rule that ʿĀḍī had given us the proper way to live. Just as some of those philosophers, scientists, and doctors who also are not following the proper introduction that אלהים has taught HIS people the right way to live in health.

One of us who read this documented article about witchcraft may now understand why it was brought up to begin with. To see why today, we have to be more careful how we choose such philosophers, scientists, and doctors. This also includes such teachers as well. Because our modern-day education system is full of mixed doctrine, no good. Most people are unable to observe properly anymore. This is why most of us no longer observe, practice, or keep and guard the law of אלהים; like those ancient Yisraelites once did. This is why many nations today are full of corruption. Who keep dividing one another and bringing war upon one another. No longer know how to follow love, peace, health, and joy. Just as some of those passage verses like Proverbs 12:20, Psalm 34:14, and Isaiah 5:20 all speak of.

“Deceit is in the heart of those who plot evil, but those promoting shalom have joy”

“Keep your tongue from evil, and your lips from speaking treachery”

“Woe to those who call evil good and good evil, who present darkness as light and light as darkness, who present bitter as sweet, and sweet as bitter!”

Choose wisely and carefully how we follow, practice, and believe in. Because oftentimes, some of those ideal things we were taught may be mixed with false doctrine. Often time can be blind to us not knowing it unless we observe properly and investigate it. While we do that, we must also pray to אלהים for wisdom and understanding. He will provide it.